

Marc Grassi

Project Manager at PUSH Design LLC

Marc's interest is in understanding a building's place with an urban context and how it relates to its surroundings. He has collaborated on cultural and civic work as well as residential design in New York City, North Carolina, and Detroit.

While in NYC, he served as exhibit project designer on TributeWTC, a visitor's center at the World Trade Center site. During his tenure in Asheville, North Carolina, he was Project Manager and designer for the renovation of a 22,000sf warehouse for mixed-use tenants including woodworking studios, a doughnut shop, and a brewery. Most recently, he served as Project Manager for Bas Bleu, a new women's club and restaurant in a renovated historic mansion on Ferry Street in Midtown Detroit.

Having worked across the country in various size architecture firms, Marc has a vast knowledge and deep understanding of many project types including schools, urban infill, high-end residential, tenant upfits, multi-family residential, and historic adaptive reuse projects.

Marc holds a Bachelor of Architecture from the University of Arizona, a Bachelor of Science in Architecture from Lawrence Technological University, and is co-chair of the Train Station Neighborhood Block Club in his Corktown, Detroit neighborhood.
